

Child Health Information Service

The Child Health Information Service is an NHS service which collects and collates every child's new born screening and immunisation information so healthcare professionals can support you with your child's development.

From 1st April 2017, the Child Health Information Service within north east London will be changing to a new provider, NELFT. NHS England (London) will ensure that your individual data and history is held securely within System C's CarePlus system and is only accessible by the healthcare professionals directly involved in your child's care. Your GP practice will provide data to the child health information service to support your child's development.

If you have any questions please speak to your GP/health visitor or email: enquiries.nelchishub@nelft.nhs.uk
